STATEMENT OF CULTURAL HERITAGE VALUE OR INTEREST

The subject property demonstrates design/physical, historical/associative and contextual values. The subject property has design value because it includes a dwelling representative of the Barrie Vernacular architectural style. The property has historical or associative value as the dwelling was constructed by Henry Dollery between 1896 and 1907. Dollery helped construct the Northern Railway and worked as an engineer for the Grand Trunk Railway for 45 years. Henry Dollery was known to have built extensively in the area and was significant to the community.

The architectural style of the dwelling follows a similar design pattern to others on the street, resulting in a cohesive neighbourhood character. The property has contextual value because it is important to maintain the character of the area. The context includes late 19th and early 20th century dwellings which are similar in terms of scale, massing, and design. This includes (but is not limited to) those located at 124, 126, 128, 130, and 132 Burton Avenue.
